Safeguard Your Pet This Summer

The dog days of summer can be a blast for your furry friends, but the fun and commotion can also lead to pets going missing
during these common summertime events:

BARBEQUES

Summertime can be perfect for backyard
barbecues, but don't forget to keep an eye on your pet
and keep them in a safe, secure area if guests will be coming and going. Pets can easily escape in the bustle of a party!

THUNDERSTORMS

One in five pets goes missing after being scared
by loud noises, so be sure to keep your pet in a quiet, secure area at home when summer
storms come rolling in.

FIREWORKS

Loud, crowded fireworks displays are no fun for pets, who can become frightened or disoriented by the sound. Resist the urge to take them to July 4th festivities by keeping them safe at home.

To prevent your pet from going missing, make sure your pet always wears an ID tag with your up-to-date contact info.

To be prepared in the event that your pet goes missing, download the free
ASPCA Pet Safety App for a step-by-step rescue toolkit: ASPCAapp.org

VENMO PAYMENTS

Venmo payments MUST BE MADE BY 2:00PM.

Payments made after 2pm do not process in our system in time for the afternoon checkout, which makes for a difficult pick up.

Tell me about... Canine Influenza Virus aka “Kennel Cough”

By Dr. Bob Parrish, 2018

There are 2 active forms of the Canine Flu virus: H3N2 and H3N8.

- The H3N8 virus was discovered nearly 15 years ago in Florida. Dogs infected with this virus can shed/spread the virus for 5 days.
- The H3N2 virus arrived in the U.S. in 2015 and dogs infected with this virus can shed/spread it for more than 3 weeks!

WHO IS AT RISK?

While there is much information available about Canine Flu (www.DogFlu.com is one good resource), perhaps the most crucial information is knowing that the dogs most at risk of getting Canine Flu (CIV) are those dogs that are “social”. Dogs that are boarded or go to doggy daycare, dogs interacting with one another at dog parks, and dogs that are groomed are most likely to be exposed. It's also important to know that virtually every dog that is exposed to the viruses will become infected, even if vaccinated. Fortunately, there is a Canine Flu vaccine that we can give that protects against both the H3N2 and H3N8 viruses (we call it a “bivalent” vaccine). The vaccine is proven to significantly reduce the severity of the flu symptoms and the length of time the pet is sick. Many boarding facilities/kennels are now requiring that their customers' dogs be vaccinated against the flu, which protects both your pet and other pets at these facilities.

If your dog has not been vaccinated against these 2 strains of flu, we give an initial vaccine, then a booster must be given 2 to 4 weeks later. The booster is then good for 1 year.

If your dog has been vaccinated against only the H3N8 (we had a vaccine for only this virus until late 2016, when the bivalent vaccine came out), it would also need to receive 2 vaccines given 2 to 4 weeks apart, then a booster once a year to ensure complete protection.

KEEP IN MIND...

While direct contact with a dog carrying one of the viruses is the most potent means of contamination, it can also be spread through the air. An infected dog that coughs or sneezes can spread the virus up to 20 feet away! Contaminated objects such as food bowls and water bowls and toys can be a source of infection as well. Even people can transmit the viruses from an infected dog to an unprotected dog.

SYMPTOMS

The common symptoms of Canine Flu include coughing, a thick discharge from the nose or eyes, fever, loss of appetite, and sluggishness/lethargy. Severe cases can develop into life-threatening pneumonia. But understand that there are several different ‘bugs’ that can cause respiratory infections in dogs and Canine Flu is just one of them. The fact that Canine Flu is so highly contagious for several days, and the fact that it can be fatal, makes it a very serious concern for veterinarians AND for pet owners, boarding facilities, groomers, etc.

CAN CATS GET CANINE FLU?

It is very uncommon for cats to get the Canine Flu, but it is possible for them to get the H3N2 virus. However, the vaccine is only labelled to be given to dogs.

CAN PEOPLE GET CANINE FLU?

There has been no evidence of people getting the Canine Flu from dogs or cats.

If you have concerns that your dog is at risk, Carolina Value Pet Care definitely encourage getting the Flu Vaccine.
